The new $30 million Brookwater Village Shopping Centre officially opened its doors on Wednesday 6 February.

Located at the corner of Augusta Parkway and Tournament Drive, the Brookwater Village Shopping Centre includes a Woolworths supermarket, Mater Health Centre and eight specialty stores and is the first stage of the entire 13 hectare Brookwater Village precinct.

Tenants to open on Wednesday 6 February include Woolworths and the new Brookwater Residential sales office, with the remaining tenants to open for business later in the month.

Brookwater Residential General Manager Terry Honan said the opening of the Brookwater Village Shopping Centre was an important milestone for the community.

“The opening of the Brookwater Village Shopping Centre is a huge milestone for us, providing residents with an even greater level of convenience,” Mr Honan said.

“Having such a diverse range of retail outlets and medical services just a few minutes down the road will be a fantastic addition to the Brookwater community.

Ipswich Planning and Development Chair Cr Paul Tully will officially open Brookwater Village Shopping Centre on Wednesday, and said the new development was an exciting step for the region.

“This new development is easily accessible and will prove popular for local residents.”

Councillor David Morrison gave his congratulations to all involved in the opening of the precinct.

“I congratulate Woolworths, Mater Health and the owners of the eight specialty shops for having the vision and faith to invest in the Greater Springfield area,” Cr Morrison said.

“This corner will no doubt be a hive of activity. I also congratulate the architects and builders who have created a very iconic centre.”
