

Hundreds ready for move into Greater Springfield CBD

GE Australia's futuristic Queensland state headquarters is just months from opening and hundreds of GE employees readying to move-in have been visiting Greater Springfield for a glimpse of the future.

It will be the first time that GE Australia has had a headquarters in the sunshine state and the first time the world's 4th biggest company has ever co-located and showcased its business divisions under the same roof.

The $85 million campus overlooks the south-bank style lagoon and parklands which are currently also under construction.

Child care facilities which will be also publicly available are timed to open with the building with negotiations underway for a restaurant and a number of retail outlets.

An information session was held for the GE staffers who were enthusiastic about the move and the opportunity to be part of Australia's fastest emerging new city.
