

QUEST FOR EXCELLENCE

Construction of an 83 room development at Quest Apartment Hotel is about to commence in Greater Springfield's 52ha Health City precinct. It will be the latest addition to the Greater Springfield skyline and the doors will open in December 2017.

To signal the start of construction, the national accommodation chain held a sod turning ceremony in November last year, joined by Springfield Land Corporation.

“With both the 478 St Kilda Road and Springfield sites now under development, Quest continues its commitment to provide adaptable, premium accommodation options where our core customer – the extended stay business traveller – needs to be, in CBD, suburban or regional locations,” Sanjana said.

Quest Springfield will comprise of a total of six floors; four for Quest, a single floor for additional child-care in the rapidly expanding area and a bottom level dedicated to retail. It will adjoin the Greater Springfield Specialist Suites which is anticipated to be completed by May 2018.

Springfield Land Corporation, which is Greater Springfield’s long-term master planner, says the hotel will strategically support the 52ha Health City precinct as well as further cement the emerging city as a destination for business and leisure.
