

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

About two years ago my wife Jane and I were introduced to Glen Wambeek by two very good friends of ours, Kevin and Wendy Brooks. Kevin had told me previously about someone they had been talking to regarding an investment property. Despite the fact that Jane and I had not considered an investment property as a strategy, Kevin spoke so highly of Glen both personally and professionally, that we felt it would be interesting to meet and talk with him.

Glen rang us to organise a time to visit and immediately we were struck by his friendly and approachable nature. He was thoroughly professional in his approach but at the same time Jane and I felt comfortable that we could trust what he was telling us about the type of investment we were considering. Had Glen not presented as he did, it is most likely that Jane and I would not have considered taking the investment further.

Jane and I flew to Brisbane and were met personally by Glen who spent the entire day with us, driving us to various locations and offering advice totally without any pressure. He answered all the questions Jane and I had and at no time presented as anything but professional and trustworthy.

Jane and I had a lot of thinking and talking to do as a result of our visit, but we certainly came away impressed with both the product Glen was offering and the manner in which he conducted his work. We decided to go ahead with the investment that day and now, nearly two years later, we have never looked back. Every commitment Glen made has been carried out and he has continued to stay in close contact with us. Jane and I feel that the original professional relationship has now been consolidated into friendship because of Glen's personal and honest approach to all aspects of the investment.

We have no hesitation whatsoever in recommending Glen as a gentleman who promises and delivers the highest standards both professionally and personally.

Yours sincerely,

Alan Wilson
