To the staff of 21cpi,

This is just a short letter of recommendation for utilizing the services of Glen Wambeek and the rest of the staff at 21cpi.

My wife and I first were told of Glen from our accountant for 'financial reasons' and have only one regret. We should not have waited five years to contact him. We would be in a much better financial position now had we taken the plunge earlier.

Glen offers outstanding customer service and makes the process of construction easy. As he said from our very first initial trip "the hardest thing is saying yes". We did invest and right from the very first step till the time we had tenants in the place within one week of completion we had little worries.

Life is too busy to be concerned with everything. Indeed investing out of comfort zones can prove daunting but when left in the hands of Glen and his associates it is left in the background and largely looks after itself.

We needed convincing, in fact we made three trips to the place we eventually chose, but then again unless you are prepared to 'take the initiative' and envisage houses on blocks of dirt, the process is difficult. Trust Glen.

We realized right from the beginning that Glen was a great person. His home visits and return of phone calls illustrated his personal care. He even returned calls from the other side of the world immediately.

We would have no hesitation recommending his services and look forward to investing with him again in the near future.

Yours Sincerely

Danielle and Christopher Hopper
